

The Awesome Activator™

1: Think of an activity (project or task) you are going to do. Write this activity inside the bubble shown in the center of the box below. This activity may be as simple as washing dishes, or as big as creating a new computer software program.

2: Brainstorm specific ways in which your activity relates to the “bigger picture of life” [as given in Scripture]. To prompt ideas, you may want to refer to 99 Truths about Work and Human Flourishing, and Questions for “Contextualizing” Work. See <http://www.biblicalworldview.com/Godspleasure.html>, #3 and #11.

3: Narrow down your key ideas to 5 or 6 thoughts that particularly “speak to you.” Write these ideas in new “bubbles” around your activity below.

4: On the next page, write down specific ways you could apply your ideas to your work. Ask God for help. Think outside the box. Talk it over with someone.

5: Think about any preparation you may need to do in order to be successful. (Any training you need to have? Any research you need to do? Any changes to be made?) Write these things down in the “skills I must develop” section on the next page.

6: Write down action steps you will to take. Be specific. Give yourself some time-deadlines.

Some ways I could apply biblical truths (as shown in the outer bubbles) to my work, written as visionary “I could see...” statements:

Some skills I must develop (or preparation I must make) in order to succeed: (Training? Research? Changes?)

Action steps I will take: (Be specific, and include some time-qualifications.)
